A World of Opportunity in Quality Blue Chips

With more than half the world's market capitalization derived outside the U.S.,¹ Guggenheim believes international investing presents a wide range of opportunities for investors. Expanding a portfolio to include exposure to both developed and emerging economies with different growth prospects and economic drivers than the U.S. may offer investors the potential for enhanced diversification and attractive long-term growth. While investing internationally comes with risks, Guggenheim believes investing in quality-focused blue chip companies offers the potential to lessen the risk that can exist beyond U.S. borders.

To offer investors access to the growth potential of large international blue chip companies, Guggenheim has partnered with Aberdeen Standard Investments Inc. ("abr dn"), a global investment company, to create the abr dn Blue Chip International Portfolio. Using rigorous fundamental analysis, including quality and price filters, the abr dn Blue Chip International Portfolio seeks to deliver a high conviction portfolio of blue chip international stocks with attractive growth attributes.

³ The Historical Annual Dividend Distribution (HADD) is as of the day prior to trust deposit and subject to change. There is no guarantee the issuers of the securities included in the Trust will declare dividends or distributions in the future. Due to the negative economic impact across many industries caused by COVID-19, certain issuers of the securities included in the Trust may elect to reduce the amount of, or cancel, dividends and/or distributions paid in the future. As a result, the HADD figure may be higher, and in some cases significantly higher, than the actual distribution rate achieved by the Trust. The HADD of the securities included in the Trust is for illustrative purposes only and is not indicative of the Trust's distribution rate. The HADD is the weighted average of the trailing twelve-month distributions paid by the securities included in the portfolio and is reduced to account for the effects of fees and expenses, which will be incurred when investing in the Trust. The HADD will vary due to certain factors that may include, but are not limited to, a change in the dividends paid by issuers, a change in Trust expenses or the sale or maturity of securities in the portfolio. ⁴ The deferred sales charge (DSC) is a fixed amount and will be deducted in monthly installments on the last business day commencing June 2023 and ending August 2023 or upon early redemption. For unit prices other than $10, percentages of C&D fees, and DSCs will vary but in no event will the maximum sales charge (S/C) exceed the total S/C. Early redemption of units will still cause payment of the DSC. However, an initial sales charge, which is equal to the difference between the maximum S/C and the sum of any remaining deferred S/C charges and C&D, will be charged if the price paid for units exceeds $10 per unit. ⁵ For unit prices other than $10, percentage of the C&D fee will vary.

RISK CONSIDERATIONS: As with all investments, you may lose some or all of your investment in the Trust. No assurance can be given that the Trust's investment objective will be achieved. The Trust also might not perform as well as you expect. This can happen for reasons such as these: • Securities prices can be volatile. The value of your investment may fall over time. Market value fluctuates in response to various factors. Changes in legal, political, regulatory, tax and economic conditions may cause fluctuations in markets and securities prices, which could negatively impact the value of the Trust. Events such as war, terrorism, natural and environmental disasters and the spread of infectious illnesses or other public health emergencies may adversely affect the economy, various markets and issuers. COVID-19 or any future public health crisis, is impossible to predict and could result in adverse market conditions which may negatively impact the performance of the Trust and the Trust's ability to achieve its investment objectives. • Share prices or dividend rates on the securities in the Trust may decline during the life of the Trust and there is no guarantee that the issuers of the securities will declare dividends in the future and, if declared, whether they will remain at current levels or increase over time. • The Trust invests significantly in the consumer products sector. As a result, the factors that impact the consumer products sector will likely have a greater effect on this Trust than on a more broadly diversified trust. General risks of companies in the consumer products sector include cyclicalities of revenues and earnings, economic recession, currency fluctuations, changing consumer tastes, extensive competition, product liability litigation and increased government regulation. A weak economy and its effect on consumer spending would adversely affect companies in the consumer products sector. • The Trust invests significantly in the financial sector. As a result, the factors that impact the financial sector will likely have a greater effect on this Trust than on a more broadly diversified trust. Companies in the financial sector include banks, insurance companies and investment firms. The profitability of companies in the financial sector is largely dependent upon the availability and cost of capital which may fluctuate significantly in response to changes in interest rates and general economic developments. Financial sector companies are especially subject to the adverse effects of economic recession, decreases in the availability of capital, volatile interest rates, portfolio concentrations in geographic markets and in commercial and residential real estate loans, and competition from new entrants in their fields of business. • The Trust is concentrated in securities issued by European companies. Political, economic or social developments in Europe may have a significant impact on the securities included in the Trust. The European sovereign debt crisis and the related austerity measures in certain countries continue to have a significant negative impact on the economies of certain European countries and their future economic outlooks. • The Trust is concentrated in securities issued by Asian companies. Political, economic or social developments in Asia may have a significant impact on the securities included in the Trust. Certain Asian economies have experienced rapid growth and industrialization, while other Asian economies have experienced high inflation, high unemployment, currency devaluations and restrictions, and over-extension of credit. Many Asian countries are subject to political risk. Many Asian countries are subject to social and labor risks associated with demands for improved political, economic and social conditions. • The Trust invests in U.S.-listed foreign securities, American Depositary Receipts (ADRs) and a New York Registry Share, which presents additional risk beyond those of domestic securities. Foreign risk is the risk that foreign securities will be more volatile than U.S. securities due to such factors as adverse economic, currency, political, social or regulatory developments in a country. • The Trust invests in securities issued by companies located in countries considered to be emerging markets. Because their financial markets may be very small, prices of financial instruments may be volatile and difficult to determine. Financial instruments of issuers in these countries may have lower overall liquidity than those of issuers in more developed countries. Financial and other reporting by companies and government entities also may be less reliable or difficult to obtain in emerging market countries. Foreign investors are subject to a variety of special restrictions in many emerging market countries. Shareholder claims and regulatory actions that are available in the U.S. may be difficult or impossible to pursue in emerging market countries. Risks of investing in developing or emerging countries also include the possibility of investment and trading limitations, delays and disruptions in settlement transactions, market manipulation concerns, political uncertainties and dependence on international trade and development assistance. • The Trust considers ESG factors during its investment process that may exclude securities of certain issuers for non-financial reasons and may forgo some market opportunities available to trusts that do not consider ESG factors. There is a risk that the companies does not operate as expected when addressing ESG issues or that the companies may not exhibit positive ESG characteristics. Data availability and reporting with respect to ESG factors may not always be available or may become unreliable. • The Trust may be susceptible to potential risks through breaches in cybersecurity. • The Trust is subject to risks arising from various operational factors and their service providers. Although the Trust seeks to reduce operational risks through controls and procedures, there is no way to completely protect against such risks. • Inflation may lead to a decrease in the value of assets or income from investments. Please see the Trust prospectus for more complete risk information.
