

Equity & Income Portfolio of CEFs, Series 47

Investment Objective

The Equity & Income Portfolio of CEFs, Series 47 (Trust) seeks to provide total return that is comprised of current income and capital appreciation.

Key Considerations

- High Income Potential: The Trust offers the potential for a high level of monthly income within a low yield environment.
- Lower Leverage: Lower leveraged closed-end funds may benefit from the uncertainty surrounding rising interest rates. The Trust, based on its underlying holdings, has a relatively lower weighted average leverage ratio.
- U.S. Equity Exposure: Guggenheim believes that the underlying strength of the U.S. economy remains sound, and would view periods of consolidation in the equity markets as opportunities to increase exposure to risk assets.

Advantages of Closed-End Funds

Many closed-end funds are designed to periodically distribute income to shareholders. In addition, closed-end funds have historically traded at a discount to their net asset value and their structure allows for the employment of leverage. These features may help investors realize enhanced total returns.* Other advantages of closed-end funds include:

- Exchange listing
- Price visibility
- Intra-day trading
- Professional management

As a professionally-selected, defined, and fixed portfolio of managed closed-end funds, the Trust may provide an extra degree of diversification for those investors seeking monthly-income potential.

* There is increased volatility associated with investing in leveraged funds.

 Despite broad diversification, it is important to note that certain closed-end funds selected for the portfolio invest in bonds rated below investment grade (sometimes referred to as "junk bonds"). These bonds are considered speculative and are traditionally subject to greater credit risk and therefore their risk of default may be greater than normal. As such, it is possible that the income streams provided by these closed-end funds may experience less stability than other investments.

Combining Growth and Income for Enhanced Total Return Potential

For investors seeking to maximize their investment performance, Guggenheim believes it's important to focus on earning total return through both growth and income. The Equity & Income Portfolio of CEFs invests in shares of multiple closed-end funds believed to have the best opportunity to provide both capital appreciation and consistent dividends. When selecting closed-end funds for the Trust, a comprehensive multi-factor security evaluation is used to construct a well-diversified portfolio offering enhanced total return potential.

Security Selection

When selecting closed-end funds for inclusion in the portfolio Guggenheim Funds Distributors, LLC (the Sponsor) looks at numerous factors including, but not limited to:

The Equity & Income Portfolio of CEFs, Series 47 is a Unit Investment Trust.

RISK CONSIDERATIONS: As with all investments, you may lose some or all of your investment in the Trust. No assurance can be given that the Trust's investment objective will be achieved.

The Trust also might not perform as well as you expect. This can happen for reasons such as these:

- Securities prices can be volatile.
- The Trust includes Closed-End Funds (CEFs), which are subject to various risks, including management's ability to meet the CEF's investment objective and to manage the CEF's portfolio during periods of market turmoil and as investors' perceptions regarding CEFs or their underlying investments change. CEFs are not redeemable at the option of the shareholder and they may trade in the market at a discount to their net asset value. CEFs may also employ the use of leverage which increases risk and volatility.
- The CEFs are subject to annual fees and expenses, including a management fee. Unitholders of the Trust will bear these fees in addition to the fees and expenses of the Trust.
- Certain CEFs held by the Trust invest in common stocks. Common stock prices fluctuate for several reasons including changes in investors' perceptions of the financial condition of an issuer, changes in the general condition of the relevant stock market, such as the market volatility recently exhibited, or when political or economic events affect the issuers, and may also be sensitive to rising interest rates, as the cost of capital rises and borrowing costs increase.
- Certain CEFs held by the Trust invest in foreign securities, which presents additional risk. Foreign risk is the risk that foreign securities will be more volatile than U.S. securities due to such factors as adverse economic, currency, political, social or regulatory developments in a country.

- Certain CEFs held by the Trust may invest in securities issued by small- and mid-cap companies, which may have limited product lines, markets or financial resources and may be more vulnerable to adverse general market or economic developments. These securities customarily involve more investment risk than securities of large-capitalization companies.
- The value of the fixed-income securities in the CEFs will generally fall if interest rates, in general, rise. Typically, fixed-income securities with longer periods before maturity are more sensitive to interest rate changes. The Trust may be subject to greater risk of rising interest rates than would normally be the case due to the current period of historically low rates.
- A CEF or an issuer of securities held by a CEF may be unwilling or unable to make principal payments and/or to declare distributions in the future, may call a security before its stated maturity, or may reduce the level of distributions declared. A CEF or an issuer may suspend distributions during the life of the Trust. This may result in a reduction in the value of your units.
- The financial condition of a CEF or an issuer of securities held by a CEF may worsen, resulting in a reduction in the value of your units. This may occur at any point in time, including during the primary offering period.
- Economic conditions may lead to limited liquidity and greater volatility.
- Inflation may lead to a decrease in the value of assets or income from investments.
