

New York Municipal Portfolio of CEFs, Series 35

Investment Objective

The New York Municipal Portfolio of CEFs, Series 35 (Trust) seeks to provide current income and the potential for capital appreciation.

Key Considerations

- Double Tax-Free Income for New York Residents: Monthly income potential, free from federal and state income taxes, from substantial exposure to New York municipal bonds. This tax-free income can be beneficial for New York residents who are in higher tax brackets.
- Diversified Allocation: The portfolio offers exposure to closed-end funds that can provide a diversified allocation to New York municipal bonds across credit quality, maturity, and issuers.
- Investment-Grade Rated: The portfolio seeks to maintain an average quality of investment-grade while seeking to provide investors with attractive income.

Income may be subject to federal, state, and local taxes as well as the alternative minimum tax. Capital gains, if any, may also be subject to tax. To the extent that any of the underlying closed-end funds invest in anything other than municipal securities, investors may be subject to federal taxes as well.

Advantages of Closed-End Funds

Many closed-end funds are designed to periodically distribute income to shareholders. In addition, closed-end funds have historically traded at a discount to their net asset value and their structure allows for the employment of leverage. These features may help investors realize enhanced total returns.¹ Other advantages of closed-end funds include:

- Exchange listing
- Price visibility
- Intra-day trading
- Professional management

As a professionally-selected, defined, and fixed portfolio of managed closed-end funds, the Trust may provide an extra degree of diversification for those investors seeking monthly-income potential.²

¹ There is increased volatility associated with investing in leveraged funds.

² Despite broad diversification, it is important to note that certain closed-end funds selected for the portfolio invest in bonds rated below investment-grade (sometimes referred to as "junk bonds"). These bonds are considered speculative and are traditionally subject to greater credit risk and therefore their risk of default may be greater than normal. As such, it is possible that the income streams provided by these closed-end funds may experience less stability than other investments.

Tax Advantages for New York Investors

Guggenheim created the New York Municipal Portfolio of CEFs to offer investors stable, tax-free income potential via a diversified allocation to closed-end funds with substantial exposure to New York municipal bonds. However, a portion of the income may be subject to the alternative minimum tax as well as federal, state, and local taxes.

When assessing the return of an investment, the impact of taxes can be substantial and should be considered. By investing in municipal bonds, investors may receive attractive, tax-free income when compared to taxable investments.

Taxable equivalent yields represent the amount of return an investor would need in a taxable investment to earn an after-tax return equal to that of a tax-exempt investment. The table below shows how various tax-exempt yields from municipal bonds compare to the taxable equivalent yield of taxable bonds based on individual federal income tax rates. The taxable equivalent yields of municipal bonds can make them more appealing than taxable bonds—especially for investors in higher tax brackets.

THE IMPACT OF TAXES ON AN INVESTMENT

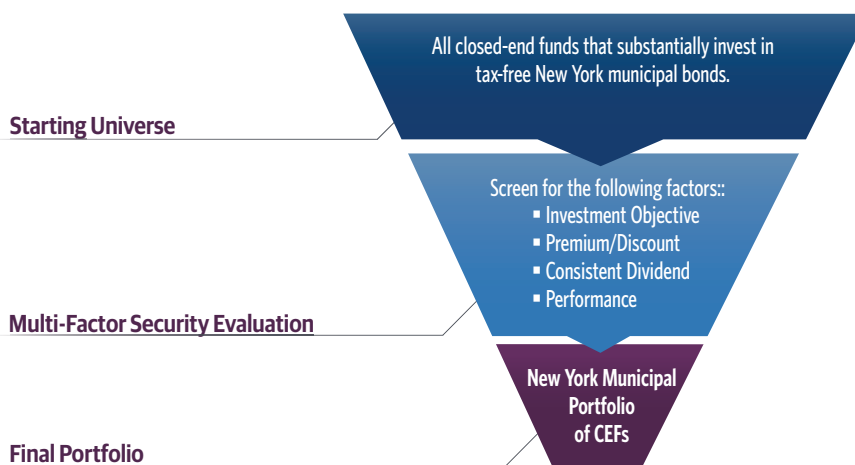

Federal Tax Rate (%)	Regular Federal Tax Exempt Yield (%)
	4.00%	5.00%	5.25%	5.50%	5.75%	6.00%	6.25%
	Taxable Equivalent Yield (%)
22.0%	5.13%	6.41%	6.73%	7.05%	7.37%	7.69%	8.01%
24.0%	5.26%	6.58%	6.91%	7.24%	7.57%	7.89%	8.22%
32.0%	5.88%	7.35%	7.72%	8.09%	8.46%	8.82%	9.19%
35.0%	6.15%	7.69%	8.08%	8.46%	8.85%	9.23%	9.62%
37.0%	6.35%	7.94%	8.33%	8.73%	9.13%	9.52%	9.92%

Based on 2020 federal tax rates. Taxable equivalent = (tax-exempt interest rate) x [1/(1-your tax bracket)]. This chart is for illustrative purposes only and is not a representation of future yields. Actual yields may be lower or higher than the example. If bonds are purchased at a discount, there will be a larger portion of taxable ordinary income. Security Selection

Guggenheim Funds Distributors, LLC (the Sponsor) has selected for the portfolio closed-end funds believed to have the best potential to achieve the Trust's investment objective. The Trust seeks to provide monthly income that is exempt from federal and New York state income taxes by investing in closed-end funds that invest in New York municipal bonds. Municipal bonds generally offer investors the potential for stable, tax-free income. However, a portion of the income may be subject to the alternative minimum tax as well as federal, state and local taxes.

When selecting closed-end funds for inclusion in this portfolio the Sponsor looks at numerous factors. These factors include, but are not limited to:

There is no guarantee the issuers of the securities included in the Trust will declare dividends or distributions in the future. Due to the negative economic impact across many industries caused by the recent COVID-19 outbreak, certain issuers of the securities included in the Trust may elect to reduce the amount of, or cancel entirely, dividends and/or distributions paid in the future. As a result, the HADD figure will likely be higher, and in some cases significantly higher, than the actual distribution rate achieved by the Trust. The HADD of the securities included in the Trust is for illustrative purposes only and is not indicative of the Trust's distribution rate. The New York Municipal Portfolio of CEFs, Series 35 is a Unit Investment Trust.

RISK CONSIDERATIONS: As with all investments, you may lose some or all of your investment in the Trust. No assurance can be given that the Trust's investment objective will be achieved. The Trust also might not perform as well as you expect. This can happen for reasons such as these:

- Securities prices can be volatile. The value of your investment may fall over time. Market value fluctuates in response to various factors. Changes in legal, political, regulatory, tax and economic conditions may cause fluctuations in markets and securities prices, which could negatively impact the value of the Trust. Events such as war, terrorism, natural and environmental disasters and the spread of infectious illnesses or other public health emergencies may adversely affect the economy, various markets and issuers. Recently, the outbreak of a novel and highly contagious form of coronavirus ("COVID-19") has adversely impacted global commercial activity and contributed to significant volatility in certain markets. Many governments and businesses have instituted quarantines and closures, which has resulted in significant disruption in manufacturing, supply chains, consumer demand and economic activity. The potential impacts are increasingly uncertain, difficult to assess and impossible to predict, and may result in significant losses. Any adverse event could materially and negatively impact the value and performance of trust and the Trust's ability to achieve its investment objectives.
- The Trust includes Closed-End Funds (CEFs), which are subject to various risks, including management's ability to meet the CEF's investment objective and to manage the CEF's portfolio during periods of market turmoil and as investors' perceptions regarding CEFs or their underlying investments change. CEFs are not redeemable at the option of the shareholder and they may trade in the market at a discount to their net asset value. CEFs may also employ the use of leverage which increases risk and volatility.
- The CEFs are subject to annual fees and expenses, including a management fee. Unitholders of the Trust will bear these fees in addition to the fees and expenses of the Trust.
- The value of the fixed-income securities in the CEFs will generally fall if interest rates, in general, rise. Typically, fixed-income securities with longer periods before maturity are more sensitive to interest rate changes. The Trust may be subject to greater risk of rising interest rates than would normally be the case due to the current period of historically low rates.
- A CEF or an issuer of securities held by a CEF may be unwilling or unable to make principal payments and/or to declare distributions in the future, may call a security before its stated maturity, or may reduce the level of distributions declared. A CEF or an underlying issuer may suspend distributions during the life of the Trust. This may result in a reduction in the value of your units.
- The financial condition of a CEF or an issuer of securities held by a CEF may worsen, resulting in a reduction in the value of your units.
- CEFs held by the Trust invest in New York municipal bonds, which are long-term fixed rate debt obligations that decline in value with increases in interest rates, an issuer's worsening financial condition, a drop in bond ratings or when there is a decrease in the federal income tax rate. Typically, bonds with longer periods before maturity are more sensitive to interest rate changes. Municipal bonds generally generate income exempt from federal income taxation, but may be subject to the alternative minimum tax. Some or all of the income generated by CEF may not be exempt from regular federal or state income taxes and as a result, the related income paid by the Trust may also be subject to regular federal and state income taxes. Capital gains, if any, may be subject to tax. Because the CEFs are concentrated in bonds of issuers located in New York, there may be more risk than if the bonds were issued by issuers located in several states. The financial condition of New York is affected by various national and local, economic, social and environmental policies and conditions and may have an effect on the value of the units. Constitutional and statutory limitations imposed on the state and its local governments concerning taxes, bond indebtedness and other matters may constrain the revenue-generating capacity of the state and its local governments and, therefore, the ability of the issuers of the bonds to satisfy their obligations.

- Economic conditions may lead to limited liquidity and greater volatility.
- Share prices or distributions on the securities in the trust may decline during the life of the trust. There is no guarantee that share prices of the securities in the trust will not decline and that the issuers of the securities will declare distributions in the future and, if declared, whether they will remain at current levels or increase over time.
- The Trust may be susceptible to potential risks through breaches in cybersecurity.
- The Trust is subject to risks arising from various operational factors and their service providers. Although the Trust seeks to reduce operational risks through controls and procedures, there is no way to completely protect against such risks.
- Inflation may lead to a decrease in the value of assets or income from investments. Please see the Trust prospectus for more complete risk information.
