

Emerging Markets Dividend Strategy Portfolio, Series 42

Investment Objective

The Emerging Markets Dividend Strategy Portfolio, Series 42 (Trust) seeks to provide dividend income, with a secondary objective of capital gains.

Key Considerations

- High Income Potential: Guggenheim feels opportunities for higher income may be found in emerging markets, as the dividend yield for emerging market equities is approximately double that of U.S. equities.¹
- Enhance Diversification: Emerging markets offer diversification benefits due to their lower correlation to the U.S.²
- Quality Advantage: Guggenheim believes companies that exhibit strong fundamentals and that distribute significant dividends on a consistent basis generally demonstrate financial strength and positive performance relative to their peers.

¹Bloomberg, 6.30.2023. Emerging market equities are measured by the FTSE Emerging Index. U.S. equities are measured by the Russell 3000® Index. ²Bloomberg, 6.30.2023. Diversification neither assures a profit nor eliminates the risk of experiencing investment losses.

RISK CONSIDERATIONS: As with all investments, you may lose some or all of your investment in the Trust. No assurance can be given that the Trust's investment objective will be achieved. The Trust also might not perform as well as you expect. This can happen for reasons such as these: • Securities prices can be volatile. The value of your investment may fall over time. Market values of the Trust's securities fluctuate in response to various factors affecting an issuer. Additionally, events such as war, terrorism, natural and environmental disasters and the spread of infectious illnesses or other public health emergencies are impossible to predict and may adversely affect the economy, various markets and issuers, which may negatively impact the performance of the Trust and the Trust's ability to achieve its investment objectives. • Securities selected according to this strategy may not perform as intended. The Trust is exposed to additional risk due to its policy of investing in accordance with an investment strategy. Although the Trust's investment strategy is designed to achieve the Trust's investment objective, the strategy may not prove to be successful. • The Trust is concentrated in securities issued by Asian companies. Tap into the Growth Potential of Emerging Markets

As seen in the chart below, emerging markets have been a significant driver of global growth and this trend is expected to continue. The International Monetary Fund estimates that the GDP of emerging market and developing economies will grow at a rate of 3.9% in 2023, outpacing growth of advanced economies.³ To provide exposure to the emerging market growth potential, Guggenheim Funds Distributors, LLC created the Emerging Markets Dividend Strategy Portfolio.

GDP OF EMERGING MARKETS & ADVANCED ECONOMIES AS A SHARE OF TOTAL WORLD GDP*

³Source: International Monetary Fund (IMF), World Economic Outlook, April 2023. The IMF classifies countries into advanced economies and emerging market and developing economies based on per capita income level, export diversification and degree of integration into the global financial system. *GDP weights are based on Purchasing Power Parity (PPP) weights, which are individual countries' share of total world GDP at purchasing power parities. PPP relates changes in the nominal exchange rate between two countries currencies to changes in the countries' price levels.

Multi-Factor Quality Evaluation

Exclude securities that have a less favorable combination of fundamental criteria of profitability, growth, and valuation to leave more attractive businesses that tend to have better price appreciation potential.

Risk Filter

Exclude securities with the worst price momentum—whose risk profiles outweigh return potential over time.

⁴The Historical Annual Dividend Distribution (HADD) is as of the day prior to trust deposit and subject to change. There is no guarantee the issuers of the securities included in the Trust will declare dividends or distributions in the future. Due to the negative economic impact across many industries caused by COVID-19, certain issuers of the securities included in the Trust may elect to reduce the amount of, or cancel, dividends and/or distributions paid in the future. As a result, the HADD figure may be higher, and in some cases significantly higher, than the actual distribution rate achieved by the Trust. The HADD of the securities included in the Trust is for illustrative purposes only and is not indicative of the Trust's distribution rate. The HADD is the weighted average of the trailing twelve-month distributions paid by the securities included in the portfolio and is reduced to account for the effects of fees and expenses, which will be incurred when investing in the Trust. The HADD will vary due to certain factors that may include, but are not limited to, a change in the dividends paid by issuers, a change in Trust expenses or the sale or maturity of securities in the portfolio. ⁵The deferred sales charge (DSC) is a fixed amount and will be deducted in monthly installments on the last business day commencing February 2024 and ending April 2024 or upon early redemption. For unit prices other than $10, percentages of C&D fees, and DSCs will vary but in no event will the maximum sales charge (S/C) exceed the total S/C. Early redemption of units will still cause payment of the DSC. However, an initial sales charge, which is equal to the difference between the maximum S/C and the sum of any remaining deferred S/C charges and C&D, will be charged if the price paid for units exceeds $10 per unit. ⁶For unit prices other than $10, percentage of the C&D fee will vary.

RISK CONSIDERATIONS (continued) Asia may have a significant impact on the securities included in the Trust. Certain Asian economies have experienced rapid growth and industrialization, while other Asian economies have experienced high inflation, high unemployment, currency devaluations and restrictions, and over-extension of credit. Many Asian countries are subject to political risk, and social and labor risks associated with demands for improved political, economic and social conditions. • The Trust is concentrated in securities issued by South American companies. As a result, political, economic or social developments in South America may have a significant impact on the securities included in the Trust. The economies of certain South American countries have experienced high interest rates, economic volatility, inflation, currency devaluations, government defaults, high unemployment rates, political instability and expropriation and/or nationalization of assets, which could adversely affect issuers in these countries. In addition, commodities (such as oil, gas and minerals) represent a significant percentage of exports for this region and many economies in this region are particularly sensitive to fluctuations in commodity prices. A relatively small number of South American companies represents a large portion of South America's total market and thus may be more sensitive to adverse political or economic circumstances and market movements. Adverse economic events in one country may have a significant adverse effect on other countries in this region. • The Trust invests in ADRs, a U.S.-listed foreign security and foreign securities listed on a foreign exchange, which presents additional risk beyond those of domestic securities. Foreign risk is the risk that foreign securities will be more volatile than U.S. securities due to such factors as adverse economic, currency, political, social or regulatory developments in a country. • The Trust includes securities issued by companies headquartered in or incorporated in countries considered to be emerging markets, which may be exposed to more volatility, have lower liquidity, less regulator actions available to shareholders, and additional market risk than more developed countries. Risks of investing in developing or emerging countries include the possibility of investment and trading limitations, delays and disruptions in settlement transactions, market manipulation concerns, political uncertainties and dependence on international trade and development assistance. • The Trust includes securities whose value may be dependent on currency exchange rates. The U.S. dollar value of these securities may vary with fluctuations in foreign exchange rates. Most foreign currencies have fluctuated widely in value against the U.S. dollar for various economic and political reasons. • The Trust invests in securities issued by small- and mid-cap companies, which may have limited product lines, markets or financial resources and may be more vulnerable to adverse general market or economic developments. These securities customarily involve more investment risk than securities of large-capitalization companies. • The Trust may be susceptible to potential risks through breaches in cybersecurity. • The Trust is subject to risks arising from various operational factors and their service providers. Although the Trust seeks to reduce operational risks through controls and procedures, there is no way to completely protect against such risks. • Share prices or dividend rates on the securities in the Trust may decline during the life of the Trust and there is no guarantee that the issuers of the securities will declare dividends in the future and, if declared, whether they will remain at current levels or increase over time. • Inflation may lead to a decrease in the value of assets or income from investments. Please see the Trust prospectus for more complete risk information.
