

Multinational Titans Portfolio, Series 17

Investment Objective

The Multinational Titans Portfolio, Series 17 (Trust) seeks to maximize total return through capital appreciation.

Key Considerations

- Growth Opportunity: An allocation to U.S.-listed stocks which derive a growing portion of revenue from emerging markets may help diversify an overall balanced investment portfolio.*
- Emerging Market Exposure: The portfolio provides exposure to emerging markets through U.S. equities which may help reduce foreign trading risks typically associated with emerging market investing.
- Increased Consumerism: By 2030 it is estimated that the world's middle class will grow to 5.3 billion people,² with much of this growth coming from emerging markets. A growing emerging market middle class may indicate more discretionary income, which in turn may increase spending.

Conservative Emerging Market Exposure

Guggenheim believes exposure to emerging markets has become an important and integral part of a global equity allocation because gross domestic product (GDP) growth in these markets is nearly twice as high as that of the U.S.¹ Investing in historically stable, U.S.-listed companies that derive a growing portion of their revenues from emerging markets may help investors to gain access to the growth opportunity presented by emerging market economies with less risk. On average, these industry leaders have historically been able to earn 49% of their total revenues from these fast growing markets, as illustrated below.

With this in mind, Guggenheim Funds Distributors, LLC created the Multinational Titans Portfolio which invests in U.S.-listed global companies. The Trust seeks companies that offer access to the potential growth of emerging markets without investing directly in the local foreign markets.

RISK CONSIDERATIONS: As with all investments, you may lose some or all of your investment in the Trust. No assurance can be given that the Trust's investment objective will be achieved. The Trust also might not perform as well as you expect. This can happen for reasons such as these: • Securities prices can be volatile. • The Trust is concentrated in the information technology sector. The factors that impact the information technology sector will likely have a greater effect on this Trust than on a more broadly diversified trust. Companies involved in this sector must contend with rapid changes in technology, intense competition, government regulation and the rapid obsolescence of products and services. Sector predictions may not materialize and the companies selected for the Trust may not represent the entire sector and may not participate in the overall sector growth. • The Trust invests significantly in the industrials sector. The factors that impact the industrials sector will likely have a greater effect on this Trust than on a more broadly diversified trust. Adverse developments in this sector may significantly affect the value of your units. Companies involved in the industrials sector must contend with the state of the economy, intense competitors, domestic and international politics, excess capacity and spending trends. • The Trust invests in U.S.-listed foreign securities and in companies that do significant business in foreign countries. Securities of foreign issuers present risks beyond those of domestic securities. The Trust's investment in companies that do significant business in foreign countries presents additional risk. Securities of such companies are subject to the risk that foreign countries may be more volatile than the United States due to such factors as adverse economic, currency, political, social or regulatory developments in a country, including government seizure of assets, excessive taxation, limitations on the use or transfer of assets, the lack of liquidity or regulatory controls with respect to certain industries or differing legal and/or accounting standards. • The Trust includes securities issued by companies that do significant business in countries considered to be emerging markets, which may be exposed to greater volatility and market risk. The performance of the securities included in the Trust may be dependent, in part, on the growth or decline of emerging market countries. Risks of investing in companies that do significant business in developing or emerging countries include, among other concerns, political uncertainties and dependence on international trade and development assistance. In addition, the economies of emerging market countries may be extremely volatile and subject to increased risks. • The Trust invests in securities issued by mid-cap companies, which may have limited product lines, markets or financial resources and may be more vulnerable to adverse general market or economic developments. These securities customarily involve more investment risk than securities of large-capitalization companies. • Share prices or dividend rates on the securities in the Trust may decline during the life of the Trust. • Inflation may lead to a decrease in the value of assets or income from investments. Please see the Trust prospectus for more complete risk information.
