

Dow Jones Value Dividend Focus Portfolio, Series 41

Investment Objective

The Dow Jones Value Dividend Focus Portfolio, Series 41 (Trust) seeks to provide total return primarily through capital appreciation and current dividend income by investing in a portfolio of common stocks.

Key Considerations

- Dividend Focus: Guggenheim believes that dividends are often a good indicator of a corporation's financial condition and may signal management's belief in a profitable future. As of the inception date, the Trust's historical annual dividend distribution is $0.4276.¹
- The Importance of Value: Value stocks have historically delivered consistent returns with lower risk than the overall market.² The Trust seeks to identify companies that have historically paid above average dividend income and have the highest potential for sustainable price appreciation over the life of the Trust.
- Strength and Stability: The Trust seeks to invest in stocks that Guggenheim believes are strong, stable and growing which may provide a buffer against market volatility in a well balanced portfolio.

Past performance is not a guarantee of future results. There is no guarantee that the trends and projections noted above will continue or come to fruition and they are subject to change.

¹The Historical Annual Dividend Distribution (HADD) is as of the day prior to trust deposit and subject to change. There is no guarantee the issuers of the securities included in the Trust will declare dividends or distributions in the future. Due to the negative economic impact across many industries caused by the recent COVID-19 outbreak, certain issuers of the securities included in the Trust may elect to reduce the amount of, or cancel entirely, dividends and/or distributions paid in the future. As a result, the HADD figure will likely be higher, and in some cases significantly higher, than the actual distribution rate achieved by the Trust. The HADD of the securities included in the Trust is for illustrative purposes only and is not indicative of the Trust's distribution rate. The HADD is the weighted average of the trailing twelve-month distributions paid by the securities included in the portfolio and is reduced to account for the effects of fees and expenses, which will be incurred when investing in the Trust. The HADD will vary due to certain factors that may include, but are not limited to, a change in the dividends paid by issuers, a change in Trust expenses or the sale or maturity of securities in the portfolio.

The Importance of Dividends

Investing for income has become increasingly difficult in an environment of low interest rates. Dividends are an important component of investment portfolios. They can represent an income source for living expenses or, if reinvested, they can have a material impact on a portfolio's total return. As shown in the chart below, over the last 20 years the impact of reinvested dividends has represented over 40% of total market return.

RISK CONSIDERATIONS: As with all investments, you may lose some or all of your investment in the Trust. No assurance can be given that the Trust's investment objective will be achieved. The Trust also might not perform as well as you expect. This can happen for reasons such as these: • Securities prices can be volatile. The value of your investment may fall over time. Market value fluctuates in response to various factors. These can include stock market movements, purchases or sales of securities by the Trust, government policies, litigation, and changes in interest rates, inflation, the financial condition of the securities' issuer or even perceptions of the issuer. Changes in legal, political, regulatory, tax and economic conditions may cause fluctuations in markets and securities prices, which could negatively impact the value of the Trust. Additionally, events such as war, terrorism, natural and environmental disasters and the spread of infectious illnesses or other public health emergencies may adversely affect the economy, various markets and issuers. Recently, the outbreak of a novel and highly contagious form of coronavirus ("COVID-19") has adversely impacted global commercial activity and contributed to significant volatility in certain markets. (CONTINUED ON REVERSE)

may decline during the life of the Trust. • The Trust invests significantly in the financial sector. The factors that impact the financial sector will likely have a greater effect on this Trust than on a more broadly diversified trust. The profitability of companies in the financial sector is largely dependent upon the availability and cost of capital which may fluctuate significantly in response to changes in interest rates and general economic developments. Financial sector companies are subject to the adverse effects of economic recession, decreases in the availability of capital, volatile interest rates, portfolio concentrations in geographic markets and in commercial and residential real estate loans, and competition from new entrants in their fields of business. • The Trust invests in securities issued by small and mid-cap companies. These securities customarily involved more investment risk than securities of large-capitalization companies. • The Trust may be susceptible to potential risks through breaches in cybersecurity. • The Trust is subject to risks arising from various operational factors and their service providers, which include, but not limited to, human error, processing and communication errors, errors of the Trust's service providers, counterparties or other third-parties, failed or inadequate processes and technology or systems failures. The Trust may be subject to the risk that a service provider may not be willing or able to perform their duties as required or contemplated by their agreements with the Trust. Although the Trust seeks to reduce these operational risks through controls and procedures, there is no way to completely protect against such risks. • Inflation may lead to a decrease in the value of assets or income from investments. Please see the Trust prospectus for more complete risk information.
